act if disordered developed, emphasized that "it appears the decision will relieve the situation for the time being."

Everett Tucker Jr., president of the Little Rock School Board, said it was gratifying to know the state's pupil placement laws had been upheld again.

"Since the Little Rock School Board is operating under that statute, we are encouraged to think that our application of the law will be held to be in good faith," Tucker said.

The Little Rock board has used the placement laws in sending only eight Negroes to once-white public high schools. Sixty Negroes applied for admission to Central, Tall and Tech High Schools, but the board assigned most of these to all-Negro Horace Mann High.

Wiley A. Branton of Pine Bluff, a Negro attorney, has attacked the Little Rock board's use of the placement measures. Branton contended in a federal court motion that the laws could not be employed to change existing federal court mandates for integration.

U.S. District Judge John E. Miller of Fort Smith, in his phase of the Little Rock integration case Oct. 1 at Fort Smith.

Dollarway school officials postponed the school's opening until a ruling on the appeal was received.

The Arkansas placement laws are patterned after those in Alabama and North Carolina. The U.S. Supreme Court has upheld the Alabama act as valid on its face.

Arkansas' laws allow school boards to assign pupils to specific schools after considering the 15 standards, which include available facilities, transportation, psychological relationships and ability.

Jury Selected for Murder Trial

HARRISON, Ark. (AP) — Selection of a jury continues today in the first-degree murder trial of Mrs. Ruby Moore and Beverly Kirby, charged in the slaying of Mrs. Moore's husband.

A regular and alternate panel of jurors was exhausted yesterday and only 10 jurors chosen. The court room was crowded.

Circuit Judge Woody Murray is hearing the case.

Mrs. Moore, 40-year-old beautician, and Kirby, 35, a postal clerk and Marine veteran, are accused in the shooting death July 26 of J. F. Moore, 53-year-old butane dealer. He was estranged from his wife.

Prosecuting attorneys have not mentioned qualifying jurors for the death penalty.

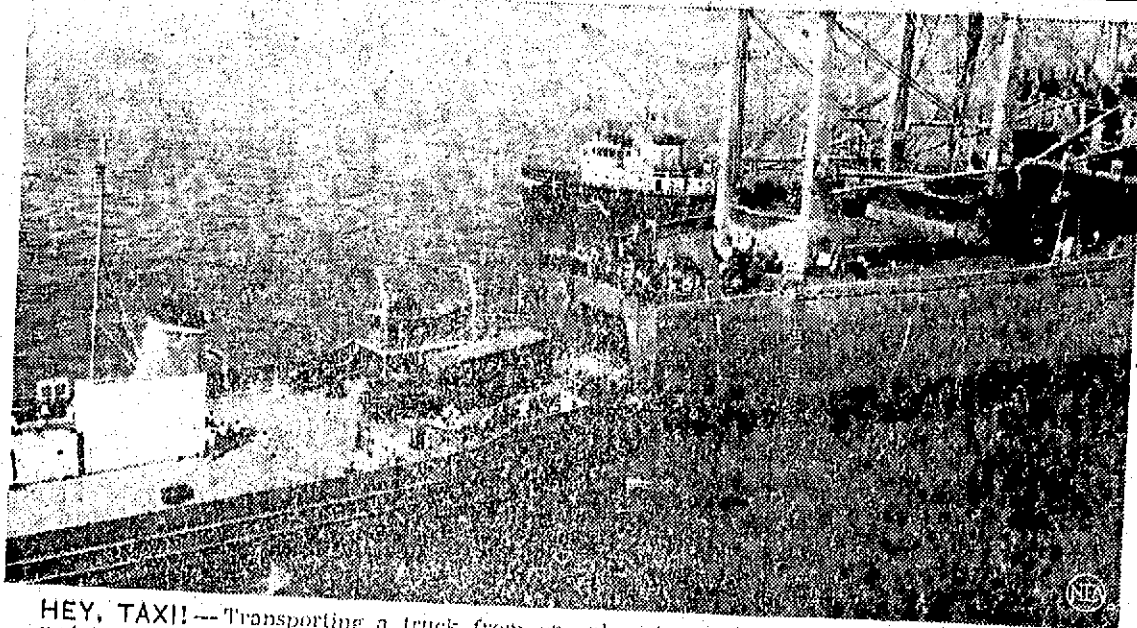

Man Found Dead, Probe Underway

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) — An investigation is being made into the death here Sunday of James Calvin Douglas Sr., 76, a retired glass company employee.

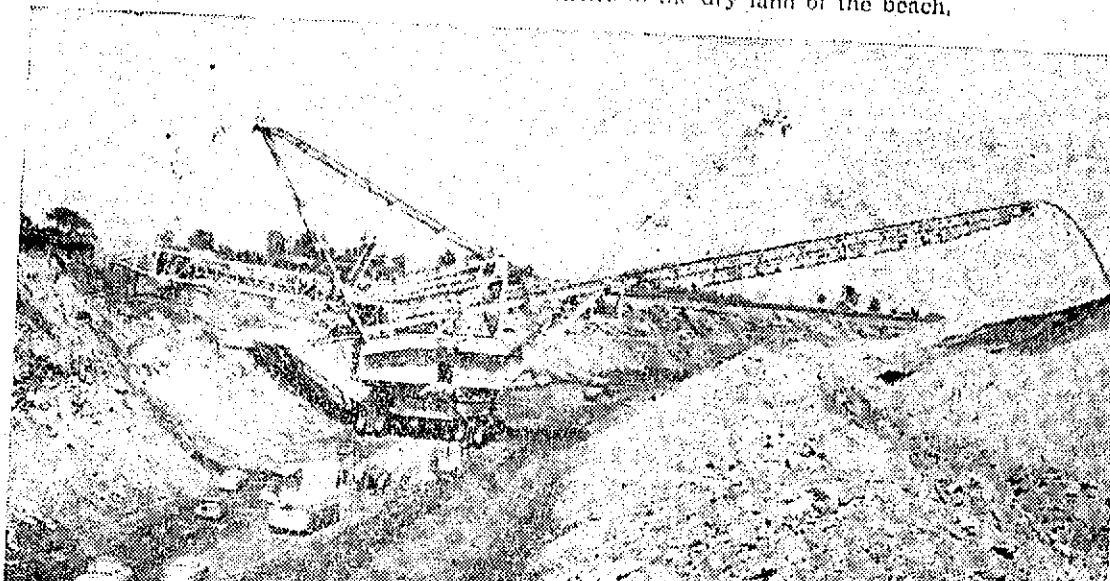

Coroner B. G. Hendrix returned a verdict that death was due to blows on the head.

Douglas was taken to a rest home a week ago after two sons found him semi-conscious in his apartment. Later he was transferred to a hospital where he died.

Relatives quoted a man who lived with Douglas as saying he was knocked unconscious in a fall in his apartment and then fell twice more while the friend was trying to get him into bed.

HEY, TAXI! — Transporting a truck from one place to another is getting about as easy on water as it is on land. Above, the U.S. Navy's ocean-going cargo carrier, the USNS Comet (right), demonstrates its roll-on, roll-off shipping technique by moving a big truck onto the U.S. Army's Beach Discharge Lighter, the Lt. BIG CHOMPER — The largest earth-moving machine ever built in America, the Kolbe Wheel Excavator, is shown in operation in southern Ohio. Owned by Bucyrus-Erie Co., it's being used to strip mine coal, but can do other gargantuan earth-moving jobs. The monster is 48 feet wide, 150 feet high and weighs 2,100 tons. It gets its name from a 27-foot-wide wheel, to be dumped, right, 420 feet away.

Bill Signed for Higher Bond Interest

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today signed a bill permitting higher interest payment on government savings bonds. Simultaneously he approved Treasury plans to raise the rate by one-half per cent.

The limited authority to increase the return on the "E" and "H" issues was as far as Congress would go toward meeting Eisenhower's insistent request for complete removal of the ceiling—now 4 per cent—on all long-term government issues.

In signing the bill Eisenhower said:

"In approving the recommendations of the secretary of the Treasury for a rate of 3 per cent, I stated:

"To my mind there is no better way of saving no more effective way of strengthening our power for peace, than to own United States savings bonds."

"To buy these bonds is to express faith in America."

The President has already made it emphatically clear that he will try again when Congress comes back in January. Even as he made ready to sign the bill, Eisenhower told his news conference Sept. 17 that he hopes the new session will "feel the heat of truth" and pass his proposal. He called the refusal to do it this year "one of the most serious things that has happened to the United States in my time."

The administration contention is that the limit on interest rates puts the government out of competition with long-term borrowers who will pay more, and forces the Treasury into inflationary short-term financing.

There is no limit on the rate for borrowings of up to five years maturity. Short-term Treasury bills have the same inflationary effect as new money by creating additional credit.

The legislation Eisenhower signed permits him to disregard the present 3.25 per cent limit on the "E" and "H" issues if he finds it in the national interest to do so. But it applies the 4 per cent limit on how high he may go.

The Treasury has announced it plans to boost the rate to 3 1/2 per cent. The higher rate will make the government bonds more attractive and is expected to stem the high rate of turning.

The Treasury expects to make the new rate applicable as of July 1 on bonds already outstanding as well as new ones. There are some 40 million savings bond holders.

"E" bonds are those bought at less than face value and maturing within a stated period so as to return a set interest rate. "H" bonds are bought at face value and pay interest periodically on that amount.

The 4 1/2 per cent limit on long-term marketable bonds has been in effect since the Woodrow Wilson administration.

"LONGHAIR" GETS CLIPPED — Celebrated U.S. musician, Leonard Bernstein, gets clipped at an exhibition in Moscow. Director of the New York Philharmonic, Bernstein jokingly asked for a haircut at the beauty parlor, which was designed to show U.S. hair and beauty treatment to Russian women.

Shocked at Number of Young Speeders

STUTTGART, Ark. (AP) — Chief of Police Harold Lamers yesterday unveiled a "shocking" report on the number of juveniles caught by his department during the first 10 days of a trial radar unit.

"Out of 37 tickets issued for speeding not a single ticket was written on a kid," Lamers told Municipal Judge Milton Robinson in city court.

Buy Now, Pay Later Grows in Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The buy now-pay later boom in Arkansas is growing and the state's credit officials see no letup in the future.

New officers of the Arkansas Credit Assn., the Associated Credit Bureaus of Arkansas, and the Credit Women's Breakfast Clubs of Arkansas agree on this.

"In the future," said Franklin T. Fessom, Camden banker and new president of the Credit Assn., "we see greater use of installment credit and revolving credit by the consumer."

"More credit cards and lower down payments," said Homer Hart, new president of the Credit Bureaus and operator of credit agencies at Pine Bluff and Malvern.

How about the problem of collecting in this booming era of bills? No problem.

"Collections are improving," said Miss Betty Banks, operator of a Fayetteville credit service.

"They're way up over last year," the credit people closed out a two-day convention here yesterday.

June Allyson Show Proved Very Unusual

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—June Allyson turned up on the home screens Monday night in the first of a dramatic series which, in this television season, is pretty unusual.

It was a half-hour show, Nobody Slugged. Everybody liked it, everybody else. Nobody was under analysis. The whole thing was in modern dress.

The plot was neat and simple: the story of a young widow who, with her mother-in-law tried to keep alive the memory of a beloved husband. Significantly, the names of the two women—played by Miss Allyson and Ann Harding—were Ruth and Naomi. Of course there was a suitor, and it all ended happily.

As Miss Allyson recently suggested, women are going to life this CBS entry—a veritable oasis in a desert of hour-long Westerns and adventure stories. Women will enjoy it even though the plays in the anthology are bound to resemble daytime serials, more than Paddy Chayefsky.

Another newcomer was "Love and Marriage," a situation comedy with a Tin Pan Alley theme. This one, on NBC, is based on the old idea that a group with a heart of pure gold is funny.

They've made this group a music publisher, thereby establishing an excuse to sing some good vintage songs.

In spite of dubbed-in laughter, however, the first show wasn't very amusing. William Demarest, who plays old cranks with hearts of gold very well, is the star. Others in the cast include Jeanine Eal, his married daughter, and Stubby Kaye as a song-plugger.

L. R. Integration Hearing Delayed

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—U.S. District Judge John E. Miller has postponed for one day the date of a new hearing in the Little Rock integration litigation.

He reset from Sept. 20 to Oct. 1 the time of hearing oral arguments on the application of a group of Little Rock Negro pupils who are protesting the School Board's use of the state pupil assignment laws to limit integration in the high schools.

Fourteen additional Negro students Saturday asked that they be permitted to enter the case as plaintiffs along with the original group.

The hearing will be held at Fort Smith.

It's fun to wear white and pastel lipsticks in mid-summer. But that doesn't mean that you should go around looking ghostly. White lipstick should never be worn alone. It goes under (left), not over, a lipstick shade that you want to lighten to a pretty pastel. Russia Can Hit New York With Missile

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviet Union has the accuracy to hit New York City with a missile fired from Moscow, the Pentagon's research chief said today. And the United States has the same degree of accuracy in ballistic missile weapons systems, Dr. Herbert F. York, the Defense Department's director of research and engineering, said in a copy-righted interview in the magazine U.S. News and World Report.

York was asked if it would be easier for the Russians to hit New York than hit the moon.

"New York City is not a very apt simile, because it happens to be so big. Let's say that it is much easier to hit the moon than it is to hit a point in the United States from Russia—and hit it with just a few miles of error. It is harder, by quite a bit, to hit a point with a few miles' error in the United States than it is to hit the moon," he replied.

York said the Soviet Union tops the United States in gross thrust—rocket power—available, but not with regard to other components that go to make up a rocket. The bigger boosters mean that the Soviet Union is ahead of us in rocket engine development, he said.

Over-all, in science and engineering at the present time, he said he believes the United States is ahead. It will take more than a year for us to catch up in missiles and space vehicles, he said.

School Financing Study Proposed

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Two state senators have proposed educational studies by the Arkansas Legislative Council, one on school district financing and the other on revision of state institutions of higher learning.

Sen. Jack S. Shelton asked that school finances be studied because bonded indebtedness, limitations and other restrictions make it impossible for some school districts to provide "adequate and safe facilities."

Sen. Joe Lee Anderson proposed the study of state institutions. His proposal includes a 1961 report of a special Commission on Higher Education which urged a state Board of Higher Education for state colleges and the University of Arkansas. The Legislature has refused to act on this plan.

Shelton suggested that a Council study of school financing be made to prepare recommendations for the 1961 Legislature. State law now limits a district to bonded indebtedness of 15 per cent of its assessed valuation.

He once ran for mayor against Mayor Floyd A. Housley, who also died today.

Westmoreland was a member of the First Baptist Church, where he was vice president of the Board of Deacons and general superintendent of the Sunday School.

He is survived by his widow, a son, George W. Westmoreland of Hot Springs; two daughters, Mrs. Jack Smith of Hot Springs and Mrs. David Kock of Shreveport, La.

Funeral arrangements are pending.

DOROTHY DIX
Husband Changed by Overseas Experience

Dear Dorothy Dix: My husband and I had a very beautiful marriage for ten years. We have two children. He's an engineer and his work has brought him to some weird places. Last year he was sent to the Far East and since I was expecting our second child, I remained home. It was a hard year but we, at home, looked forward to having him back again when we could resume our happy home life. It didn't work out that way, he came home a changed man. He had lived with a native woman and still feels he's in love with her. He claims he never really did love me but that we should stick together for the children's sake. He has gotten very irritable, is impossible to please, and is very sarcastic with me. When I mention breaking up, he says I want to walk out on him. I can't make him understand that he is the one who walked out. I realize that the children are the first consideration, but I can't see that living in a house with two parents who hate each other is doing them any good. Can anything be done to improve the situation?—D.J.

Dear D.J.: Your husband is suffering from a very guilty conscience, and like most people in that position, is trying to pin equal guilt on everyone in sight. Very few people can admit they are wrong; it's much more fun to blame someone else. Your husband knows he is in the wrong, but he's trying to shift some blame on to you. Don't let him get away with it. He's ruining his life, yours and the children's. Tell him quite frankly that you are not going to let him make nervous wrecks out of the little ones and that you think it best to leave him alone with his moods. If he's so anxious for the idyllic life of the Far East, let him go back and try it again. It won't be so appealing on a repeat performance. Once he sees he can no longer get away with his pouting, sulking, and dreaming, he'll be back to normal.

Youth to Take Oath on Friday

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP)—Gordon E. Young, a Pine Bluff attorney recently named U.S. district judge of the Eastern District of Arkansas, said today he will take office in a brief public ceremony at Little Rock Friday.

The oath will be administered by Chief Justice Carleton Harris of the Arkansas Supreme Court.

Woman to Trial for Slaying Husband

HARRISON, Ark. (AP)—Mrs. R. Rubby Moore, 40-year-old beautician, and Boveney Kirby 36, postal clerk and disabled war veteran, go on trial today in the slaying of Mrs. Moore's husband.

Both are charged with first-degree murder.

J. Fon Moore, 53, a bitane dealer, was killed the night of July 26 on a Harrison street. He was shot twice near the heart with a .22 caliber rifle.

Mrs. Moore, who was estranged from her husband, and Kirby were arrested a couple of hours after the body was found. At their arraignment, they pleaded innocent formance. Once he sees he can no longer get away with his pouting, sulking, and dreaming, he'll be back to normal.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am to be married in three weeks, and my fiancée just informed me that she has vision in only one eye. She wears very thick glasses as she is quite near-sighted. My parents want me to break off.

What shall I do?—Elmer

Dear Elmer: If she wears thick glasses it certainly must have been obvious that she has serious eye trouble. This is a rather late date for you to become squeamish about it. Make up your mind on the basis of whether or not you love her.

Send your problem to DOROTHY DIX. Be sure to enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, and address her care of this newspaper.

Iowa Farmer to Tell How to Raise Corn

By HELMAN MORIN

COON RAPIDS, Iowa (AP)—Iowa farmer Roswell Garst is ready to give Nikita Khrushchev some tips on how to produce more food in the Soviet Union when the Soviet leader visits his farm Wednesday.

But his larger purpose, Garst says, is to help with the task of "selling Khrushchev on an arms inspection plan to get rid of the burden of armaments."

Garst is a hybrid corn expert, livestock raiser, farmer, banker and proprietor of a general store in Coon Rapids—population 1,700—some 65 miles northwest of Des Moines. He met Khrushchev during his several trips to the Soviet Union and he was a guest in Khrushchev's home on the Black Sea last spring.

"You might say I'm constitutionally opposed to hunger," Garst said. "I think a hungry man is a dangerous man and a hungry nation is a dangerous nation."

"Khrushchev's primary interest is to find out why 12 per cent of the people in the United States can produce enough food for the 100 per cent, and with a diet high in the meat type of human protein—and why it takes 50 per cent of the people in the Soviet Union to produce a diet substantially lower in the meat type of protein."

"He is interested in finding out how to produce a better and better diet with less and less people. This is what I basically intend to help him discover."

Garst's home is a rambling white farm house set on a knoll and sheltered with shade trees. The barns and silo are only a step away. A large tent has been pitched outside for the noonday meal for Khrushchev's family and aides, and 150 guests.

Garst said a good American salesman ought to find it relatively easy to sell Khrushchev on an arms inspection plan.

Garst is known in these parts as a capable salesman. He said he "has a few ideas" on subjects other than corn and cattle and hopes to have the opportunity to mention them to Khrushchev.

and were released on $25,000 bond each.

Mrs. Moore is the mother of three children.

Judge Moody Murray will hear the case in circuit court.

Selects Bobcats Over Smackover Bucks 7-6

By WICK TEMPLE

Pine Bluff and Little Rock Hall are the choices to win Big Nine Conference games this Friday night and El Dorado and Hot Springs get the nod in non-conference action.

Little Rock Catholic is picked over tough Benton and Hope rates a one-point favorite over Smackover in the top Class AA games of the week.

The fourth week of the school-boy season adds up to a Friday of close games in Classes AA and AAA. Only in a few contests are the favorites given no more than one-touchdown edges.

El Dorado emerged from the pack last week as the team to beat in the Big Nine. A 12-0 victory over Fort Smith flashed the state that Coach Garland Gregory's squad is probably even tougher than last year, when it won the conference title.

Pine Bluff won its first conference outing over Texarkana last week and is favored to rebound Friday night at Pine Bluff Hall. Pine Bluff is a seven-point favorite over Fort Smith at Pine Bluff Hall.

Here's the outlook:

Pine Bluff 21, Fort Smith 14. Game of the week no matter how you look at it. The Grizzlies should be hungry after their setback last week at the hands of El Dorado. And they know they'll be all but out of the race if they lose. Pine Bluff's Zebras, the coaches' favorite, has quarter-back Gordon Guest and a home audience to back them up.

Hot Springs 13, Benton 7. The Trojans were better last week than in their initial loss to De Queen. Benton has been ready twice for Smackover and Stuttgart, two big ones, winning both.

Catholic High 12, Malvern 7. (Thursday night). One of the best AA games of the season. The Rockets have seen tougher opposition and did a good job against Hall despite a 17-6 loss. Malvern has slaughtered two 30-50 clubs and had to rush to beat Crossett, 7-0.

Hope 7, Smackover 6. The winner will be the favorite in WAA. The Bobcats turned in a tremendous effort last week in upsetting De Queen 23-26 and the momentum should carry over. Smackover lost to Benton and beat Fairview.

Rogers 6, Van Buren 0 in a sixer in the northwest corner of the state.

Stuttgart 13, Jonesboro 6, as the Ricebirds bounce back from last week's upset loss to Benton.

Conway 20, Russellville 15 in a top central Arkansas 3AA game.

Braves in Tie With Dodgers for Nat'l Lead

By ED WILKS

Associated Press Sports Writer

Warren Spahn has won 20 again and Milwaukee has barreled into a tie for the National League lead. But don't kid yourself. The Braves' big guy is Ed Mathews. It was Mathews, belting five home runs in four games for a share of the major league lead with 43, who got the job done. The left-handed slugger drove in five homers for an 8-6 decision over the Pirates at Pittsburgh that made Warren The Wonder a 20-game winner for the 10th time in a 15-year career.

The Braves, winning three in a row and 12 of their last 15, jumped into a tie with Los Angeles for a one-game edge over the San Francisco Giants. Each of the contenders has five games to play.

The Braves are at Pittsburgh again tonight with lefty Juan Pizarro facing Harvey Haddix, the slim southpaw who pitched 12 perfect innings against Milwaukee last May only to lose.

The Dodgers open a two-game series at St. Louis tonight with either Sandy Koufax or Danny McDevitt, both left-handers, going against the Cards' Larry Jackson, a right-handed who blanked Los Angeles on two hits the last time they met.

The Giants start a two-game set at Chicago this afternoon with right-hander Jack Sanford going against the Cubs' Art Ceccarelli, a lefty.

LSU Selected Best Team in the Nation

By WILL GRIMSLEY

Louisiana State, Oklahoma and Auburn are the Big Three in The Associated Press college football poll and "X" marks the spot they occupy in the weekend games.

All three face formidable rivals capable of knocking them into the lower drawer.

The LSU Tigers, unbeaten-undefeated national champions of 1952 and preseason favorites to repeat, are host to Texas Christian's Southwest Conference champions in a game which probably will be rated a tossup.

Oklahoma, No. 2 in the poll, faces North Western at Evanston, Ill., in the TV game of the week while Auburn, No. 3, has a date with rugged Tennessee at Knoxville.

LSU, Oklahoma and Auburn, who were picked that way in the preseason balloting, held their positions in the first poll of the season, announced today.

There was a mild shakeup in the lower part of the order because of impressive victories by Clemson and Texas Christian.

Clemson moved to fifth place, just behind Mississippi. After knocking off North Carolina 20-13, TCU usurped ninth on a 14-7 decision over Kansas.

LSU received 64 of the 96 first-place votes cast by sports writers and broadcasters and amassed a total of 1,195 points—more than double that of Oklahoma.

The top ten, with total points based on 10 for a first-place vote, 9 for second, etc.—first place votes in parentheses:

1. Louisiana State (64) 1,195
2. Oklahoma (12) 566
3. Auburn (6) 474
4. Mississippi (6) 468
5. Clemson 370
6. Southern Methodist 262
7. Army 248
8. Wisconsin 218
9. Texas Christian 193
10. Northwestern 164

Second Ten:

11. Southern California (4) 162
12. Ohio State 154
13. Navy (tie) 129
14. Iowa 126
15. Texas 112

Porkers Step Up Work for Aggie Team

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—

The University of Arkansas' Razorbacks don't pads and step up their work today. They took it easy in their opening drill of the week, running play assignments and wind sprints.

The Hogs came out of last Saturday's 28-0 conquest of Tulsa with no injuries. Coach Frank Broyles, after watching game movies with the squad, announced no lineup changes.

Broyles said he thought OSU had a better hall club than was shown in the Cowboys' loss to Cincinnati last week.

Steady White, freshman coach who scouted OSU, said, "They have a tough team."

The Razorbacks will face a big other game scheduled in the NFL. Mathews tied the Cubs' Ernie Banks, who hit his 43rd at St. Louis, for the home run lead with a two-run shot in the ninth off Bonnie Daniels, the Bucs' fourth pitcher. But Spahn, 5-0 against the Pirates, suddenly was in trouble and the Bucs had three runs in before Don McMahon fanned Don Hoak, to end it.

The Hogs will continue fairly heavy work through tomorrow, Thursday. Friday the team will go to Hot Springs, spent the night there, and travel to Little Rock Saturday.

Chisox Go to Cleveland for Final Game

By ED WILKS

Associated Press Sports Writer

This is it. The Chicago White Sox are at Cleveland tonight for one last game with the Indians, already living on borrowed time.

One last game for the American League pennant.

Sure, the White Sox have a 3 1/2-game lead with three games remaining after tonight. But this is one that can do it, the one that can put an end to those 40 fruitless years since their last pennant.

A victory at Cleveland clinches it for the White Sox. A loss leaves them hanging. Then they'll have to win two of those last three games—all at Detroit against the Tigers, who took two of three at Chicago last weekend—to be safe.

They could lose tonight and still make it, of course. They can do it by winning just one of their last three should Cleveland drop one of its remaining four—all with Kansas City. And they can do it by not winning any—let the Indians drop two to the A's.

But who's to say the Indians will lose any if they put this one away tonight?

It's one game for the pennant. And Chicago's pitching job goes to Early Wynn, the Old Man who's been getting the job done all season, winning 20 and losing but 10.

Joe Gordon, the Indians' lame duck manager who could become a living martyr if they pull out Perry (12-9) for this one. Gordon, pestered into a resignation by General Manager Frank Lane, shuffled his rotation a bit to bring the right-handed rookie against the White Sox with three days rest.

The White Sox have won 14 of 21 with Cleveland this season. And they're 8-2 at Cleveland, where they hung the Indians up to dry last month.

Pitching has been the White Sox's answer for Cleveland's power. When the pitching slipped, the Indians shook loose from the cage at Chicago 2-1 two weeks ago.

Only two games were scheduled in the majors Monday, and both were in the National League. Milwaukee tied idle Los Angeles for first place with an 8-0 victory at Pittsburgh as Warren Spahn won his 20th and Ed Mathews drove in five runs with two homers. Chicago's Cubs clobbered St. Louis 12-3.

Girl 16, Is Attacked by Negro on Bus

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The mother of a 16-year-old white girl student at Central High School said today a Negro boy attacked her daughter on a crowded city bus yesterday and beat her.

Mrs. Kenneth Harper said her daughter Annette was struck in the face several times while the bus was a few blocks from Central.

She said Annette told her the boy, about 14, attacked after being asked to stop pushing.

Police Chief Gene Smith said two patrolmen investigated the incident and their report showed a fight had occurred between Annette Harper and Cecil White, Negro, a student at Dunbar Junior High School for Negroes. The report said the girl's glasses had been broken in the altercation. He said the officers were unable to determine who had started the fight.

Smith said the boy had left when police arrived. He said no arrest was made and the information would be turned over to juvenile authorities.

An attendant at Arkansas Baptist Hospital said Annette Harper was given emergency treatment for facial abrasions late yesterday and was released. Mrs. Harper said she feared her daughter's nose was broken. She planned to take her to a specialist. The girl's father is a 42-year-old foundry worker.

Annette, a senior, told her mother she boarded the bus with several white girls. Annette Harper was sitting near the front of the bus. Some Negro girls seated nearby began making remarks about the white girls. Annette said she and a young Negro woman tried to get the Negro girls to stop but they kept on.

Several Negro boys boarded the bus, Annette said, and one began bumping against her as he stood in the aisle. She said she asked him to "please stop" and suddenly he struck her in the face three or four times. The girl said his blows broke her glasses and bloodied her lip. One of her companions tried to help her, she said, but other Negro boys prevented it.

Annette said she grappled with the boy who hit her. She said the bus reached Main Street about that time and the boy got off and left. Someone called police, and officers went to the scene.

CHAPTER XIV

The laboratory door swung open and Aguilar limped in. Under the other, he carried a bulky object wrapped in oilskin. Aguilar deposited his burdens on the table and shook himself like a large dog to rid his clothing of rain water.

"I'm as wet as when we took our swim," he announced.

Cloris was examining the rat in its metal sarcophagus. "Oh, it's a beauty."

"Thank you," Aguilar looked at Mallory. "Anything new?"

"Baoz had plague, all right — if that can be called news. What else you got there, Colonel?"

"I brought the freighter's log book and wireless records to be sterilized. If we can find something to translate, we might learn something of value. I also brought our guns for the same purpose. I don't know how you feel about yours, but I have a sentimental attachment for the weapon."

"Thanks. But I'm not very sentimental myself. To me, a gun is just a gun. A fine thing in its place," he glanced at Cloris. "Like a woman."

She was preparing the dead rat for examination and didn't pay any attention. "Get rid of this cigarette for me," she requested. "I've got work to do."

Mallory complied and then, following Aguilar, retreated to the window. Aguilar, staring out at the storm, said, "even if the contraband was unloaded at La Paz which seems likely, it is probably not there any longer. La Paz is merely a way station."

Mallory nodded; they had their work cut out for them. The purloined smugglers would have to be swift and sure, and the tonnage help of publicity in order to avert panic. There was little margin for error. They would have to be right the first time.

Cloris looked up from the microscope. "Well, that does it. The rat had it too. There's no doubt. It's the same mutation in each case."

"Odd," murmured Aguilar. "Where you come to think of it." "Not really. Rats have always been the worst animal enemy we have. As disease carriers."

"I know that. But why didn't we see any dead rats? All we found were dead men."

"Oh," Cloris chewed her lip thoughtfully. "Of course, you'd expect some of them to hide to die but, even so... That may be a very important observation."

Gingerly, Cloris held up the glass slide. "Doesn't look especially deadly, does it? But there's slide to kill a lot of us."

They stared, fascinated, at the tiny transparent rectangle of

Visitors Go Shopping for a Few Hours

By FRANCES LEWINE

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — State Department officials helped Khrushchev dodge reporters and crowds Monday for a few hours of calm shopping and a chance to look at a school.

Her day on the town, as a result, was a quiet contrast to that of her husband, the Soviet Premier.

Shipping out of the official Khrushchev motorcade in a sleek maroon car, Mrs. Khrushchev and her small entourage eluded their own local police escort. They were off for more than three hours before newsmen located them. But she was escorted by her own security guard throughout.

Liven security officials were looking for the ladies, said Clement Conger, deputy chief of protocol, who was in on the ruse.

Rumors had spread about where they might go and a crowd of some 500 gathered to wait outside I. Magnin & Co., San Francisco's biggest exclusive women's store.

Mrs. Khrushchev went instead to a Sears Roebuck store, where she spent $150 buying clothes for grandchildren — just born and expected.

The outing, lasting from about 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., took her and the Khrushchev daughters, Rada and Julia, over the famous Golden Gate bridge, through a Chinese section of the city and into the suburbs.

They paused at 2:15 p.m. for a late lunch at Trader Vic's, a swank restaurant often frequented by San Francisco socialites.

It was after lunch that the private journey ended. As the party set out for an hour and a half drive, a 10-car motorcade of newspaper people screamed past red lights and up the steep hills after them.

At Vista Point, seven miles outside the city, where they paused to see the breathtaking bay view, tourists came up to snap pictures with news cameramen.

Otherwise, Mrs. Khrushchev went unnoticed.

She went to the Anza Grammar death. Finally, Mallory said, "All three. Maybe that's the answer." "That do you mean?"

"There are three smugglers, too. Maybe your little blackjack friend will catch them before we do."

The lights in certain government suites burned all night in Mexico City. Agreement as to action and secrecy was arrived at quickly. The Turkish ambassador proposals of indemnification were outlined, if such should prove necessary. The ambassador, too, approved of the secrecy measures, pending other instructions from his own government; his country also had tourist commerce to consider. Finally, coded instructions were radioed to naval headquarters on the west coast.

Shortly before dawn, the Mexican gunboat Francisco Madero, rushing hard to the north despite the raging storm, made radar contact with its quarry. An hour later, with two torpedoes in its guns, the Kalsari-Rum went down.

The copilot, Barron, came back to tell Aguilar there was a radio message for him. Aguilar put his binoculars aside and followed Barron to the flight deck.

Later, Aguilar slid back into the compartment.

"That was the La Paz police," he told Mallory. "They had received a telephone call they thought I might be interested in. It seems that a shepherd from a village to the north — a place named Soledad — has found the body of a foreigner."

Mallory raised his eyebrows. "That sounds like we're in business."

"Perhaps. Of course, to some of these people anyone from the next village is a foreigner."

Mallory crawled back to awaken Cloris. She blinked groggily. "We home already? Seems like I just closed my eyes."

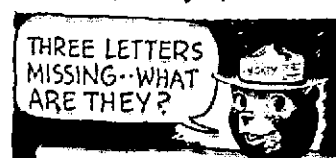

"You did. We're going to do a little sightseeing. Another body's turned up."

"The way I feel," Cloris murmured wearily, "it could be mine. Well, I guess I'd better dig out my other pair of rubber gloves just in case."

The shepherd turned out to be a middle-aged woman who stood with downcast eyes while Aguilar interrogated her. She had been rounding up her flock following the storm when she had come upon the corpse. She had gone no closer than necessary to ascertain that the man was dead and that he was a stranger, a foreigner, she thought.

matter of FACT

Because of its importance as a food, salt has been an article of commerce since the very earliest times. Caravans carried it across the desert from the oases of the Sahara as they do today. The Romans named one of their most important roads the Via Salaria (Salt Highway) because it was the route for the salt trade to northern Italy. The salt of Palmyra, an oasis in the Syria Desert, was carried all along the Persia Gulf.

China's Bid for UN Seat Likely to Fail

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Red China's bid for a U.N. seat is expected to fail for the ninth straight year today.

Observers predicted the 82-nation General Assembly would vote to shelve the thorny East-West issue for another year.

The Assembly headed for a ballot after a day of bitter debate in which the United States branded Red China an outlaw.

The charges put forth by former U.S. Assistant Secretary of State Walter S. Robertson brought a sharp counterattack from Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov. He accused the United States of trying to drag the U.N. back to the worst days of the cold war.

Apparently angered by the blunt U.S. reply to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's espousal of Peking's case here last week, Kuznetsov charged Robertson with distorting facts in an attempt to churn up feeling against Red China. He depicted the Communist state as peace-loving and reiterated its claim to the Chinese Nationalist bastion of Formosa.

The opening day of debate on the issue indicated none of the member states has switched its position from last year when Peking's bid was batted down 44-28 with 9 abstentions.

Only the Soviet bloc members appear to be giving spirited backing to Khrushchev's declaration that refusal to seat Red China is causing an intolerable situation.

43.6 Per Cent Live in Urban Areas

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — An estimated 43.6 per cent of Arkansians now live in urban areas of 2,500 population or more, the state Chamber of Commerce reports.

If persons living in unincorporated areas on the fringes of cities were included, the Chamber added, urban population probably would exceed 50 per cent.

The Chamber said the number of persons living in cities has increased more than one third since 1930, when 32.6 per cent of Arkansians lived in urban areas.

About 735,000 persons live in cities of 4,000 population and up, the Chamber noted, and about 50,000 live in towns of between 2,500 and 4,000 population.

The trend toward urbanization creates a problem "of how to provide civic facilities for more people," the Chamber noted, and this in turn is related to the availability of tax money to cities and counties.

White River has a total length of 720 miles, originating in the Ozark Mountains in the northwestern corner of Arkansas. It flows into the Mississippi near Arkansas Post.
